

Hospitals of the Future

Some big changes

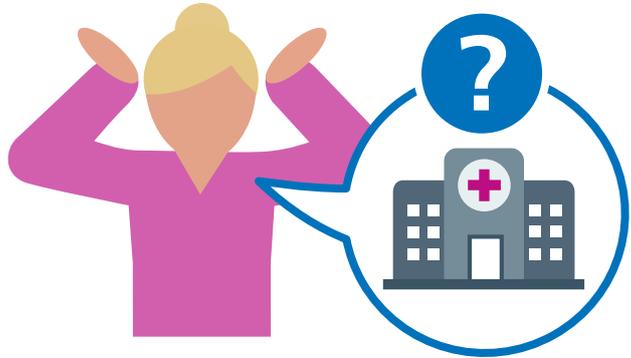

What's it all about?

Leeds Teaching Hospital NHS Trust runs seven hospitals. These include Leeds General Infirmary and the Leeds Children's Hospital.

We are making some big changes and need your help to make sure we get this right.

Why are we making the changes?

- Some of our buildings are very old and we cannot use them anymore.
- We need more operating theatres so people can get home quicker.

- We want people to have more privacy.

- People tell us that some of our services are hard to find.

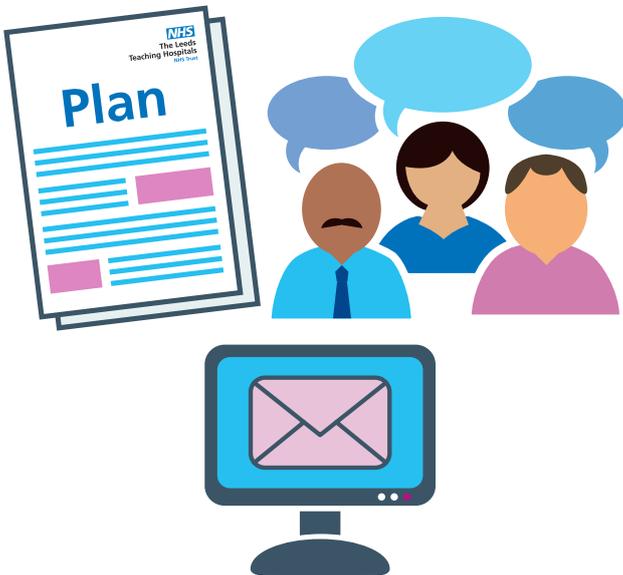

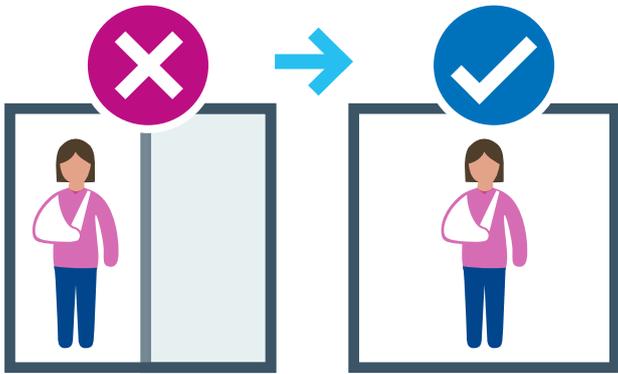

This will mean some big changes to buildings.

Our plans

We want to build two new buildings at Leeds General Infirmary. One will be for adult health services. The other will be a new Leeds Children's Hospital.

This will help us to run the best services we can and give you the best care we can. Some of the changes are:

- Have buildings that are more comfortable for patients, their loved ones and staff.

- Using technology in a better way such as mobile phones or computers.

- Being able to move walls around to make the space work for the patients.

Some services such as outpatients will also get better.

We need your help to get this right from the start. You can see our plans and share your ideas on our website at:

You can come and see our plans and share your ideas at two drop in sessions on: Friday 9th and Monday 19th of November.

Drop in sessions are at Carriageworks, Millennium Square, Leeds, LS2 3AD.

You don't need to book places, you can just come along when you want to.

You can find out more about the drop in sessions at:
